

DESIGN IN COLOUR

An unusual approach to colour and a clever eye creates a distinctive scheme.

A typical approach to a house with a world of collectibles is to whitewash the backdrop and be done with it. Indeed, Resene White runs across doors, trims and sills to perform this task beautifully, but white is just the start.

Outside, Resene Havoc – a rich shade of red – is a cheerful accent to the window shades, while Resene Black Rock makes a handsome front door. Inside, battened ceilings are painted the soft pink of Resene Cosmos; in the study the ceiling is Resene Muka. In the extension, thoughtfully reshaped by architect Malcolm Walker, Resene Glamour Puss defines the connection between old and new. And in the dining area, Resene Half Nullarbor is a gentle backdrop to some of the owners' favourite art pieces.
