Resene art with Mark Rayner – 41

You will need:

- MDF or plywood panel (ours measured approximately 775mm x 500mm)
- Masking tape
- Paintbrushes
- Resene Lumbersider tinted to Resene Paua
- Resene Multishield+ gloss
- Resene Quick Dry waterborne primer undercoat
- Resene Sandtex Mediterranean effect
- Resene Testpots of Resene Bullion and Resene Porsche
- Tape measure

Step one

Prime the panel with one coat of Resene Quick Dry and allow to dry for two hours.

Step two

Paint the panel with one coat of Resene Sandtex Mediterranean effect, applying the paint using a stippling technique to create texture. Leave to dry for two hours.

Step three

Apply two coats of Resene Paua to the panel, allowing two hours for each coat to dry.

Step four

Mask off a random combination of horizontal stripes. Ours measured approximately 25mm, 50mm, 100mm and 150mm.

Step five

Paint alternate stripes with two coats of Resene Porsche, allowing two hours for each coat to dry.

Step six

Apply one coat of Resene Bullion, brushing along the line of the stripe as shown. Allow two hours to dry and then apply a second coat of Resene Bullion.

Step seven

Carefully remove the masking tape and allow the second coat of Resene Bullion to dry for two hours.

Step eight

Apply one coat of Resene Multishield+ gloss to the panel and allow to dry for two hours.

Combine Resene Sandtex with a contrasting two colour stripe to create this stunning textured wall panel.

To get the look:

Mark painted the background wall with Resene SpaceCote Flat waterborne enamel tinted to Resene Frangipani.
