NZIA RESENE
AWARDS FOR ARCHITECTURE
2005

and the Award goes to...

The synergy of balanced colour, design and structure, teamed with excellence of execution is a goal to strive for, for the absence of just one element will undermine the potential of the work. In today's world, sustainability is becoming an increasingly important element across all categories, underpinning a new practicality and sensitivity to work that must be combined and carefully balanced with innovation, lifestyle and design so that none are constrained. The architect is poised at the leading edge of this change, a precarious position from which to challenge old beliefs and influence and lead the nation into new ways of considering the built environment.

The NZIA Resene awards recognise this leadership and excellence, showcasing the true craft of architects providing a tantalising snapshot of the exceptional living and working environments the architectural fraternity is formulating to work with modern lifestyles and to gently guide design direction in the wider community.

Congratulations and thank you to all NZIA members who have taken part in this year's awards programme. Your ongoing commitment to design, detail and environmental sensitivity are an example to us all and we continue to look forward to enjoying the fruits of future work while enjoying the luxuries and aesthetics of the current. Resene is proud to look back on more than a decade of its association with the NZIA, during which time New Zealand architecture has continued to push the boundaries and challenge our imaginations to dream.

The New Zealand Institute of Architects announced its 2005 Supreme and New Zealand Awards at a Gala Dinner in Wellington. Attended by over 600 guests, these are the most significant professional recognition that architects can receive in New Zealand.

Three NZIA Resene New Zealand Award winners were further rewarded with this year's NZIA Resene Supreme Awards for their dynamic design, execution and craftsmanship.

Surprising, inspiring and spectacular are often heard descriptors in conversations regarding the Piha beach house designed by X-Site Architects. Spectacular for the panoramic view, and surprising and inspiring for unique architectural treatment that moulds the house around the scene. Clever internal structure creates beautiful framed views between all internal spaces, arranged around a covered courtyard for seamless flow between the building and the natural environment.

A design in the image of the falcon's wing is the base from which the Peregrine Winery takes its name and the structure, designed by Architecture Workshop Ltd, has evolved. A dramatic roof, turning, climbing and enfolding offset against a mountainous landscape makes a strong statement of purpose while providing protection from the elements. Inside the seductive winemaking process is organised with inherent drama steeped in practicality.

Drama is also inherent in the Cremorne Street house, a Stevens Lawson Architects' design. Sensuality, depth, crafted luxury and quality are all wrapped up in this sumptuous home that celebrates the routine of everyday life. A white folded plane ensures privacy from the street, sheltering a hidden treasure for the enjoyment of its owners.

The Gold Medal is bestowed by the NZIA for an outstanding contribution to the theory and practice of architecture, demonstrated through the production of a consistently high-quality body of work over a period of time and to the advancement of architectural education and architectural discourse. In 2005 this honour has been awarded to David Mitchell with his significance to New Zealand architecture spanning roles of educator, practitioner, designer, author, commentator, explorer and gifted architect. With ten previous awards for architecture, David Mitchell's work has been celebrated as an example of excellence, an excellence that budding architects and readers aspire to. His current portfolio of work includes residential, public and cultural projects, together with urban design consultancy across a spread of New Zealand locations. The Gold Medal is a fitting tribute to his body of work and his ongoing contribution to New Zealand architecture.
