

THE COLOURS OF WINTER PICK A PATH

Firmly rooted in nature, you can't go wrong with this key colour trend, whether you're looking for boldness and depth or to create a sense of calm.

The earth, sea and sky often inspire the colours we use in our homes. They are, after all, colours we are innately familiar with and this makes them easy to live with. This year, Resene's nature-inspired palette flows in two directions. One family focuses around shades with boldness and depth, such as spicy ochres and untamed terracottas. The other is subtle and soothing, with hempy browns and hues of barely-there tussock. To recreate the beauty of the outdoors inside your home, load your favourite nature photo into the Resene Colour Palette Generator at resene.com/palettegenerator, and let it suggest a range of Resene colours to get you started. If your natural scheme is looking lifeless, play with the texture and sheen levels. Timbers stained with grain-enhancing Resene Colorwood, subtle brushed Mediterranean textures created with Resene Sandtex, and the matte beauty of Resene SpaceCote Flat take things to a new dimension.
