

Nature calls

Use the sweet subtle tones found in nature to inspire calming spaces

A DELICATE APPROACH

An interior that takes its design cues from nature doesn't have to be overgrown with loud florals. Creating a quiet contemplative feel is easy with a palette of Resene green-tinged neutrals with subtle touches of acid green or sage green used as accents. Add texture with a rattan chair and a restrained foliage arrangement in a vase, along with a simple botanical print cushion. Take it to the next level, but in an elegant way, with a delicate mural on the wall – in this case, it depicts toetoe blowing in the wind. This is a look that echoes with both the freshness of spring and the dreaminess of summer.

Other nature-inspired colours to try are muddy ochres, stony greys and fresh greens.

Walls in Resene Half Joanna (bottom) with the top and toetoe mural in Resene Quarter Alabaster; floor in Resene Colorwood Uluru stain; cabinet in Resene Half Truffle; coffee table in Resene Highball; vases in Resene Iko Iko and Resene Planter (on floor) and lamp base in Resene Mondo.
