

KAREN WALKER PAINTS COLLECTION FROM RESENE

The inspiration for this chart came from the Bauhaus School of the 1920s, whose concept was to create and combine colours from an emotional point of view rather than a technical one, to group colours in a way that tells a story. With this in mind we've created seven stories that, true to the Karen Walker style, play with the combining of opposites and putting together of ideas in surprising ways.

FASHION FOR WALLS

Once upon a time colour choices seemed to be bound by endless unwritten rules of which colours could be used where and with what; a minefield for the uninitiated.

As our communities have become more global, thanks in no small part to the wonders of modern technology, we can draw inspiration from all over the world from the comfort of our own home or office. This has broadened our outlook on colour palettes and colour combinations, banishing those restrictive colour rules to the history books. This global inspiration comes together in the new The Range fashion colours collection from Resene, with an eclectic mix of key colour trends. It's a fusion of colour that you can make your own.

The hues head in three directions: the dusty timeless hues that provide a soft cocoon and remind of us of our heritage; the clean cool light hues that provide soothing relief and tranquillity in a fast world; and the pops of bright colour that bring fun, excitement and energy.

Nature continues to influence with a palette that's infused with earthy, neutral tones – showing our growing appreciation for the earth and its resources. Wood tones are reflected in beiges and browns, such as Resene Bittersweet pictured here, and offset by a soft golden metallic shimmer. Barely there and mid-tone neutrals hint of subtle undertones, while darker neutrals have greater colour depth and intensity. It's time to forget the old colour rules and embrace the endless possibilities of colour. Let your own tastes be your guide and surround yourself in colours that you love – you'll be amazed at just how good it feels to live and work in your favourite colour palette.
