HELLO, YELLOW!

Happy, sunny yellow – the perfect combination of warmth and cheeriness to pick you up over winter. It brings a little brightness into your life and makes you smile.

Deep, dusky yellows are saturated colours and lend sophisticated warmth to a room, and look fantastic in older homes with a heritage bent. Give these colours an acidic edge by adding a touch of green for sharp urban interiors and team them with charcoal black or black. Or add red for a spicy saffron yellow that looks great in ethnic-inspired interiors.

When used on the walls of a room, yellow reflects off itself so its look intensifies even more. If in doubt, choose a softer, creamier yellow or use as a highlight rather than the main colour. Try a punch of bold yellow on a splashback, feature wall or furniture.

Perfect Grey

FEELING GREY?

Like any other part of the colour spectrum, neutrals have their place in fashion. Now is the time for grey, in everything from a silvery off-white to a deep, grungy charcoal.

Mid-grey has a calming effect. True grey can be too cool, so adding a smidgen of another colour will change its character. You can go 'greige' (grey-beige), by adding a little brown. This still has the appearance of grey but with an added touch of warmth. If you want to heighten the effect of grey and add a bit of fun and life to it, look at the various silvers available in the Resene Metallics and special effects range. Try silver-grey and white with touches of deep charcoal or black. Or turn that combination on its head: go for charcoal walls with white accessories. Use fresh citrus hues as a pop of colour.
