Toys and Games
with Mark Rayner – 24

You will need:

- Clean cloth
- Doll's pram
- Paintbrushes (including an artists' brush)
- Resene Quick Dry
- Resene Enamacryl tinted to Resene Half Alabaster and Resene Paris Daisy
- Sandpaper
- Tools for dismantling the pram

Step one

Dismantle the pram and lightly sand any previously painted areas to 'key' the surface.

Step two

Wipe off any sanding residue with a clean cloth.

Step three

Apply one coat of Resene Quick Dry to all the previously painted areas and allow two hours to dry.

Step four

Using the artists' brush, paint the wheel spokes, rim and wooden handle with two coats of Resene Paris Daisy, allowing two hours for each coat to dry.

Step five

Paint the metal base frame and upright handle supports with two coats of Resene Half Alabaster, allowing two hours for each coat to dry.

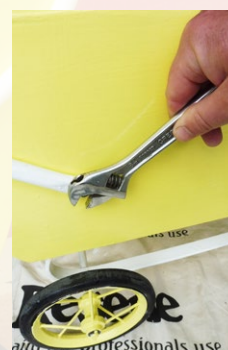

Step six

Paint the inside of the pram base and hood with two coats of Resene Half Alabaster, allowing two hours for each coat to dry.

Step seven

Paint the outside of the pram base and hood with two coats of Resene Paris Daisy, allowing two hours for each coat to dry.

Step eight

Reassemble the pram and then spot prime and paint any bare bolt and screw heads, if necessary.

Revamp an old doll's pram using a fresh combination of white and yellow Resene colours.

To get the look:
Mark painted the background wall with Resene Lumbersider tinted to Resene Deep Blush.

Other ideas:
For a bright pink and white effect paint the pram with Resene Alabaster and Resene Glorious.
