COLOUR MATCH

Try a mix of sheen levels to add interest to a neutral colour scheme; plain white is a clean and elegant contrast to the growing range of blacks.

Resene's new colour story is clean, bright, optimistic and divinely comfortable.

The Range 2011/12 draws together nostalgia, nature and pleasures as simple as a flower to celebrate the house as the home it used to be rather than the show place it's become.

Today we want a cosy, secure nest in which to cherish what we have and those we love.

'Old' and 'new' are obsolete terms. Colours are evolving more slowly; trends are more enduring.

The new range of homely colours is generally cleaner and less complicated than they have been. The palette tends towards the feminine, as women increasingly become the household decision makers; accents of über-bright petal colours across the spectrum will cheer the dullest spirits on the dreariest day.

Nature remains a strong influence inside and out: sunlit yellow greens, cool refreshing greens and transitional green-blues.

Feel-good landscape greens, yellows and ochres inspire nostalgia for slower, simpler times, and yellows with a hint of green have an appealing retro feel.

Deep, strong reds merge into the highly saturated reds and clear oranges of Latin America, then spicy oranges and rusty tones progress into browns.

Intense blues are an alternative neutral to grey or black, and so are the emerging warm neutrals and mineral inspired hues, including subtle flesh tones.
